Adieu

Everything dies so quickly; the rose a bloom, and the freshly dappled cloaks of the meadows, deep sighs, those we love well, wisps of smoke!

One can see, in this insubstantial world, everything changing; more rapidly than waves upon the sand, our dreams, more suddenly than the branching frost, our hearts!

I may have believed myself faithful to you, cruel one, but, alas! The most abiding loves are brief!
And I say, upon abandoning your charms, without tears, just at the moment of my confession, farewell!

Dear old coat, listen, I stay here below, but you must now ascend the mount of piety!
Receive my thanks. You never bent your threadbare back to the rich and powerful. You have sheltered in your pockets like peaceful caves, philosophers and poets. Now that happy days have fled, I bid you farewell, my faithful friend, farewell, farewell. Schounard, each in his own way let us put two acts of charity together; I ... this! And you ... leave them alone there together.

O del mio amato ben

Oh, lost enchantment of my dearly beloved! Far from my eyes is he who was, to me, glory and pride!
Now through the empty rooms I always seek him and call him with a heart full of hopes?
But I seek in vain, I call in vain! And the weeping is so dear to me, that with weeping alone I nourish my heart. It seems to me, without him, sad everywhere. The day seems like night to me; the fire seems cold to me. If, however, I sometimes hope to give myself to another cure, one thought alone torments me:
But without him, what shall I do? To me, life seems a vain thing without my beloved.

O Sole Mio

What a beautiful thing is a sunny day! The air is serene after a storm,
The air is so fresh that it already feels like a celebration. What a beautiful thing is a sunny day!
But another sun, even more beautiful, oh my sweetheart, my own sun, shines from your face!
This sun, my own sun, shines from your face; It shines from your face!

When night comes and the sun has gone down, I almost start feeling melancholy;
I'd stay below your window when night comes and the sun has gone down.
But another sun, even more beautiful, oh my sweetheart, my own sun, shines from your face!
This sun, my own sun, shines from your face; It shines from your face!

Ouvre ton coeur

The daisy has closed its petals, the shadow has closed its eyes for the day. Beauty, will you speak with me? Open your heart to my love. Open your heart, o young angel, to my flame so that a dream may enchant your sleep. I wish to reclaim my soul, as a flower turns to the sun!
